

PERMACULTURE 101

WORKSHOP SERIES

Permaculture is a method of ecological design aimed at creating human spaces that go beyond sustainability to heal and regenerate the Earth. In this workshop series you will learn about the philosophy of permaculture while also gaining hands-on skill that can be immediately implemented in your own spaces.

Participants can sign up for individual workshops or all four. Workshops are $40 each or $150 for the series. All workshops include a hands-on component so dress for the weather and bring tools (if you have any)

Pruning Fruit Trees – Saturday March 26, 1-4pm

Learn the basics of growing and caring for fruit trees in the city.

Sheet Mulching – Saturday April 23, 1-4pm

Create a garden plot without tilling, which can damage valuable topsoil, by sheet mulching otherwise known as lasagna gardening.

Designing and planting your garden – Saturday, May 14, 1-4pm

Learn how to design and plant a permaculture garden in your own backyard

Indoor & Outdoor Composting – Sunday, June 5, 1-4pm

Set up a compost system for every space. Participants will learn how to maintain an indoor worm compost as well as an outdoor composting system.

For the location, to register, and for further information please email Bonnie at bonnie@goldenarrow.com or Becky at earthmagic.london@gmail.com

About the teachers:

Bonnie Wodin is the proprietor of Golden Yarrow Landscape Design. With over 25 years experience, she is dedicated to helping connect people to their outdoor spaces. She focuses on garden mentoring to help her clients learn how to create their own abundant, organic outdoor spaces.

Becky Ellis is a certified permaculturalist who has studied, written about, and participated in community gardens in Toronto and London. She regularly conducts eco-education workshops for both adults and children.

CARE FOR THE EARTH , CARE FOR PEOPLE, CARE FOR THE FUTURE